FRANCE TO REFUSE GERMAN SUGGESTIONS

By United Press

PARIS, Aug. 12.—France regards the proposals in the British reparations note as unacceptable and Premier Poincare probably will reply flatly refusing the British suggestions, it was learned semi-officially today.

A semi-official analysis of the British note said the whole tendency of the Downing street communication was to demand reduction of the French claims and abandoning of guarantees which France considers unobtainable.

It was considered probable Poincare would reply contesting the British points which he regards as erroneous.

Semi-officially it was pointed out that with the exception of a few points, the British attitude as outlined in Curzon's latest communication is exactly the same as in the past. Hence France can only be consistent and make the same reply as in past—a refusal.

James McKenna Had Gone For a Drink of Water

The body of James McKenna, 63 years, was discovered at 5:30 a. m. today in the yard of his rooming place, 1727 Houston avenue, death apparently having occurred about 10:30 Sunday night when McKenna left his room to go for a drink of water.

According to other roomers in the house, McKenna was ill all day Sunday, and they expressed the belief that his death was due either to a stroke of apoplexy, or acute indigestion.

Except for a sister and probably other relatives in New Jersey, friends of McKenna said he has no other known relatives. He has been working in Port Arthur for the Gulf Pipe Line company for sometime past, and several months ago received an injury to his chest, making it impossible for him to do heavy work since his recovery.

Floating Booze Palace for 1,000 Planned Off Galveston

Flagless schooner With Machine Guns to Fete Thirsty Just Off Three-Mile Limit. Pros Silent

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 12.—A floating "rum palace" accommodating a thousand persons and on which the finest of liquors will be sold, will be anchored off Galveston harbor in three weeks, according to an announcement made here today.

The resort will be located on the four-masted schooner "Atlantico" and will be operated by Captain N. S. Copeland, of Galveston, and Tom Turner, of League City. Captain Copeland said today.

Whisky "never" thing

Three carloads of Pilsener beer are en route from Germany to stock the ship in addition to a large cargo of whiskies, champagne, gin, and other liquors. All drinks will be sold at post-war prices.

The "Atlantico" which is in Galveston harbor at present will fly no flag, being under the status of an American ship out of commission. A picked crew of 20 men will man the boat. Machine guns will be mounted on the fore and after decks.

Arrangements are being made by Captain Copeland and Turner to run an excursion boat from Houston to the ship. No liquors will be allowed to leave the boat which will also act as a depot for incoming ships to leave the liquor supplies before entering American territorial waters.

Copeland and Turner are proceeding with the final arrangements for "rum palace" under an opinion by J. M. Mathis Sr., prominent Houston attorney, that they will be violating no liquor or other laws.

Perfectly Legal, Contend

Judge Mathis bases his opinion on a recent decision of the supreme court that American ships may carry liquor outside the three mile limit.

"We are going to run an orderly restaurant, saloon and cabaret," Captain Copeland told the United Press. "We have expended over $75,000 in outfitting the ship. I have consulted Judge Mathis and have been assured we will be violating no laws."

Federal authorities are silent regarding the proposed establishment of the floating saloon. Being outside the jurisdiction of the federal government, no moves have been planned, it is understood.

C. OF C. BOARD TO CONSIDER BURGE

Eastland Man May Be Recommended as Manager

A special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors was called this morning for 4 o'clock this afternoon, according to information announced by H. F. Banker, president.

Although the officials of the chamber remained reticent, it is understood on reliable information that the meeting is being called for the express purpose of voting upon a successor to Leroy G. Stump, recent secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce. President Banker, when approached this morning relative to the exact nature of the conference, refused to divulge its purpose, and said that the meeting will be an executive session, closed to the public.

It is understood, however, that A. E. Burge, former secretary of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce at Tyler, which office he occupied for two years, and recently manager of the Eastland, Tex., Chamber of Commerce, which office he has occupied six months, will be recommended as successor to Stump.

To Probe Legality

The complaint was lodged by Jensen this morning during the regular session of city commission, and will bring about a thorough investigation of the city charter concerning the legality of the employment of officers who have been here but a short while.

Covington's answer was given in response to questions concerning what action he would take on the letter to Detective Harris by Mayor Logan telling the detective that his services on the Port Arthur police department had been dispensed with.

"I shall demand a public hearing on the case before the city commission and until that time Detective Harris will be retained. I shall not fire him," declared Chief Covington before leaving for court at Beaumont this afternoon.

"There is a certain element in this town that would like to see the entire police department fired," continued the chief, "and for that reason I do not intend to discharge one of the best officers on the force."

"Harris has been instrumental in making it tough on the bootleggers of this city and the shoe is beginning to pinch. I believe that the good people of Port Arthur are behind the forces of law and order and for this reason I shall ask the commission to set a date for a public hearing on this case."

Held to Grand Jury

The Brown-Harris altercation resulted in Harris being held to the grand jury on charges of assault with intent to murder. According to statements made by Brown, Harris endeavored to arrest him and when he was lodged in jail, Harris gave him a beating. This was denied by Harris who claimed Brown resisted arrest with an automatic shotgun. Harris further claimed that when he was placed in Brown in a cell, he grabbed for the detective's gun and the officer was obliged to beat him over the head with the weapon.

The Council's Letter

A letter addressed to Detective Harris, bearing the signature of the mayor, and which was made public at commission meeting this morning, notifies Harris that he may "consider his services at an end as of August 15." The letter follows:

"You are hereby notified that the commissioners of the City of Port Arthur consider that the evidence produced in the recent investigation into your beating of R. D. Brown sufficient grounds for your discharge from service in the police department of the City of Port Arthur, Texas, and desire you to consider your services at an end as of August 15th, 1932."

Another communication addressed to Police Chief Covington, and which also bore the signature of Mayor Logan, accompanied the letter made known at commission meeting.

Police Chief Says He Will Demand Public Hearing

ALTERCATION SEQUEL

Actions of Commissioners Based on Brown Affair

Apprised of the contents of communications addressed to himself and Detective B. A. Harris from the city commission notifying the latter of "his discharge from the police department," Police Chief W. W. Covington this afternoon declared that "Harris will not be discharged."

The statement of Chief Covington concerning Harris' status on the police force develops a new angle in city hall circles in a wrangle brewing for some time as a direct result of the recent arrest of R. D. (Bloody) Brown, and in which a new tangent arose today with the filing of a complaint by John H. Jensen against the employment by the police department of officers who have not resided in Port Arthur for any length of time.

To Probe Legality

The complaint was lodged by Jensen this morning during the regular session of city commission, and will bring about a thorough investigation of the city charter concerning the legality of the employment of officers who have been here but a short while.

SAUNDERS GIVES UP P.-W. FIGHT

Turns Over Everything to Pay $5,000,000 Obligation

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 12.—(Star.) Saunders today paid dearly for his victory over "Wall Street." The "boy financier" who three months ago counted the profits of his trading in Piggy Wiggly stock on New York stock exchange in millions, today prepared to surrender everything he possessed, even his home, in an attempt to prevent bankruptcy.

Saunders, one time grocery clerk was ready to surrender stock and control in the management of the Piggy Wiggly chain of self-service grocery stores, which he founded.

Obligations $5,000,000. His obligations, according to estimates, totalled $5,000,000. This was money borrowed to carry on a campaign to force up the price of Piggy Wiggly stocks.

Nearly a year ago Saunders believed speculators were trying to ruin him by forcing down the price of stock in his stores. He bought all of the Piggy Wiggly stock offered for sale. Pools were formed to fill money Saunders in purchasing the stock. The "grocery clerk" himself obtained nearly all of the outstanding stock and when those who had sold short tried to buy to cover their sales, the price was forced up from $22 a share to around $500.

When Saunders had more than $4,000,000 in paper profits, the board of governors of the New York Stock Exchange suspended trading in the stock, declaring a corner existed.

With no market left for his holdings, Saunders was unable to sell securities to pay the money borrowed from the pools. He announced he would retire from the presidency and gave up all control in Piggy Wiggly at a meeting of the pool today.

"I have lost my business and my money, but I have gained knowledge from which I will attempt to build up another fortune," he said. "I will lose every nickel I have, even my home."

A new system of financing Piggy Wiggly stores was expected to be worked out at the meeting of the committee and their headquarters may be moved to New Orleans.

MAGNOLIA CUTS CRUDE PURCHASE

Limits Buying to 50% on Gravity Stock

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 12.—The Magnolia Petroleum company today announced a reduction in the amount of its oil purchases in all oil fields in Texas and Oklahoma, where it is purchasing crude oil on a gravity basis.

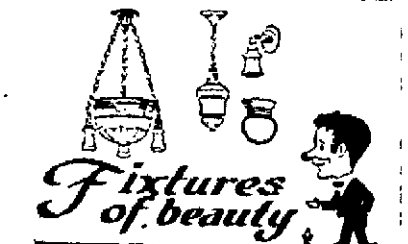

The reduction becomes effective today, according to a statement issued by the company.

The statement follows: "Effective August 13, 1923, at 7 a. m., and thereafter until further notice, this company in all oil fields in the states of Oklahoma and Texas where it is purchasing crude oil on a gravity basis and above to fifty per cent of the production of wells to which its pipe lines are connected; the other fifty per cent of such crude oil will be run into the company's common storage stock of oil of similar grade and be changed to contract oil to be immediately furnished to customers for their execution."

the confidence of the commissioners and of their desire to aid him and his department in every respect, but pointing out that the investigation into the Harris-Brown affair prompted the action calling for the officer's resignation.

"I am very sorry indeed to have to take this action," the mayor's communication to Chief Covington said, "and I did so only after waiting several days for reply of my communication to the requesting committee to call for Harris' resignation. I was hoping you would take this action in order to avoid undue publicity or advertisement of the unfortunate affair."

Jensen Challenges Officers

Following the arrest this morning of his son, John H. Jensen of 1345 Richmond street, an employee of the Texas Company, appeared before the city commission and filed complaint against "the employment of officers on the city police department who are non-residents of Port Arthur, or who have not been residing in this city for at least one year."

Jensen told the commissioners that his son was held in prison this morning following his arrest on the streets, "when he had done nothing at all."

Legal Question Up
 Young Jensen was brought to the city hall this morning and lodged in city hall following his arrest, according to arresting officers, to divulge from whence he drew his livelihood. "Investigation" was written opposite his name on the police blotter.

Jensen's complaint to the commission brings up a legal question, it was indicated during the meeting this morning, of whether the police department can employ officers who have not resided here for a given length of time. Fred White, assistant city attorney, who was present when Jensen made his complaint, expressed the opinion that a provision of the charter asserted that "officers" of any city department must have resided in Port Arthur for at least one year, but that "police and firemen," also mentioned in the charter, were not considered "officials."

White indicated that they were rather "employees of the city and not officials."

The commission instructed Attorney White to investigate the charter in this connection, and the question of whether it is necessary for city employees to be residents of this community a given length of time before they can occupy office will probably be brought out at an early time.

LONG FRANCHISE FOR BUS LINE

10-Year Document Passes Second Reading

Franchise for the Port Arthur-Port Neches bus company to operate in the city of Port Arthur for a period of 10 years was passed to its second reading in the form of an ordinance this morning during the regular daily session of the city commission.

At the same time, an ordinance making it a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine in corporation court of not less than $200, to install any system of auto bus line between this city and Beaumont, Texas, was passed to its second reading by the commission.

May Parallel Car Lines
 The franchise ordinance passed to its second reading grants permission to the Port Neches-Port Arthur company to operate transportation vehicles on all streets in Port Arthur except Sixth, Seventh, Houston avenue and Richmond, and on streets and avenues one block distance away, or to cross any street used by the street railway company.

The ordinance requires the bus line company to furnish the city $20,000 bond, and sets forth that at any time a street railway installs a line on the streets used by the bus company, that the latter shall relinquish its right to operate there.

Misdemeanor Ordinance
 The ordinance making it a misdemeanor to operate a bus line between Port Arthur and Beaumont is said to be an outgrowth of a recent application to the city officials made by the Galveston Bus Line company to install a line between the neighboring cities, and which line it was pointed out, would eventually grow to cover transportation between Houston, Silsbee, Orange, Beaumont and Port Arthur.

The ordinance does not name any specific company or organization, although it is understood it is designed to prohibit the installation of an auto service line such as was proposed by the Galveston organization recently. The measure points out that such a service would necessarily endanger the highway to Beaumont, and would work in opposition to the electric line, which was the first to install a service between the two cities.

NEGRO JANITOR
CANVAS ARTIST

Picture of Christ Child Is Lauded by Critics

KANSAS CITY, Mo., August 13.—Interest of art critics in an oil painting depicting the "Birth of Christ" which hangs in the Union station here, led today to the discovery of the "unknown artist" Albert Jackson, a negro janitor and former coal miner.

A group of critical art lovers, gathered about the painting, exchanged comments of wonder that such a first-class original canvas should appear in such comparative commonplace setting. Such paintings are rarely found outside the walls of the best art galleries, they agreed.

Jackson, in his grease-covered overalls with a monkey wrench in one hand, came up from his workshop in the basement at the request of the station-master, and told the critics briefly his love for art and the work he had done in oil paintings after hours in his little home in the colored section here.

"You might call this my masterpiece," the negro said. "I have done many small paintings, but this is my best. I worked on this canvas every night after working hours, for four months."

Jackson told his audience he had never studied art, although several of them insisted before they met the painter that the canvas was "old Italian" or the work of an artist who had received his training from the old Latin masters.

"I have always aspired to be a painter," the negro continued. "But I have not studied art and the ability I have comes natural. I get ideas from visiting the art galleries and from talking with artists."

The critics agreed the painting, barring a few minor technical faults was well done. The figures, depicting the Christ child lying in the manger watched over by the kneeling virgin Mary, were almost perfect, as was the accuracy in shading and proportion of the foliage and other background.

COW RIDES IN AUTO

DURHAM, N. C., Aug. 13.—John West Wilson, a mail carrier at Wilson, N. C., on his vacation, put one over the other day.

Besides his wife and children, there's nothing John loves better than Mollie, his family cow.

Mrs. Wilson being the only one that could milk Mollie, did not want to leave the cow at home.

So John roped and hog-tied Mollie, backing his flivver up, he put Mollie aboard and rattled away to his favorite fishing grounds.

Negroes Study Arabic;
Plans Return to Africa

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 13.—With visions of some day returning to Africa and becoming "first citizen" among their less favored brethren in their "native land," scores of St. Louis negroes are taking up the study of Arabic.

Their leader is "Shiek" Ahmad Din, who holds weekly Moslem religious services where the language is being picked up by the St. Louis negroes.

Ahmad Din is his Moslem name. He was christened P. N. Johnson, his father being an Arab and his mother a negroess.

Attired in ordinary street clothes with the exception of a glaring green turban, Ahmad Din each week preaches the doctrine of "Al Ham Do Lillah Rabul Al Ameen," as he says it.

Beginning his lessons with a religious service, Ahmad Din reads a chapter in the Koran, proclaiming "there is but one God and that it Allah." Songs are then sung, followed by chapel prayers.

With characteristic negro fervor the negroes are flocking to "Shiek" Ahmad's mission to be initiated into the mysteries of Islam and to "talk Arabic."

"I have one hundred converts in St. Louis and I have been here six months," the "Shiek" said. "We are gaining rapidly."

BOY IS FOUND;
FACING NOOSE

Caught in Frisco For Crime Done in London

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—After almost three years of liberty, Sidney Murrell, a London, Canada, youth, passed through here, en route from San Francisco to London to answer a charge of murdering Russell Campbell, a garage proprietor, at Melbourne, Ont., in 1921.

Murrell, who is branded by the Canadian police authorities as one of the most desperate criminals in history, was arrested with his brother and another man named Williams immediately after the crime had been committed during an attempted bank robbery.

The preliminary hearing and formal commitment for trial followed rapidly, and it was then that the London and provincial police of Ontario began to realize what sort of a criminal they were dealing with.

An attempted escape was frustrated and additional guards placed at the jail. But a week before the trial, in the face of additional guards and other precautions, the two Murrell brothers severed the bars of their cell and escaped.

Saw Bars of Jail. The bars had been cut with fine saws. How they reached the young criminals has remained an unsolved mystery. Until a few weeks ago the whereabouts of the two offenders was also a mystery.

Since their daring getaway from the London, Ont., jail, however, the two boys had become adept gamblers. Sidney had become somewhat of a pugilist. Incidentally, both had accumulated a little money and Sidney, who is the older of the two, decided to use his own words, to "blow himself." He purchased an automobile and in doing so he brought about his arrest.

Unfortunately for Murrell, the car he purchased was a stolen one. Consequently when he and a companion named McGregor were driving through the village of Sausalito, near San Francisco, the sheriff spotted the stolen vehicle and promptly arrested the occupants on a charge of theft.

The sheriff had a remarkable memory for faces, and when he saw Murrell, who was traveling under the alias of Brown, he picked him out as the much-wanted Canadian murderer.

GERMANY TO BE
RUSS PROVINCE

This Is Professor's Forecast In 100 Years

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—One hundred years from today Germany will either have a population of 200,000,000 or be a Russian province, according to Professor Dr. Gieber of Jena university.

Pointing out the rapid strides being made in England, the United States and South American countries in the matter of eugenics, Dr. Gieber declares unless Germany wakes up to the need of spreading information on this subject Germany is due to national extinction.

"It will be necessary for us, if we do not wish entirely to withdraw from the battle of peoples, to interest ourselves in the spreading of eugenic knowledge," Dr. Gieber said, "otherwise we will either disappear or become a meaningless people. We will either have a population of 200,000,000 people or become a Russian province within the next 100 years."

"Nowhere in Germany are the universities and schools of higher education interesting themselves in the matter of maintaining the German racial stock. The example of England and her colonies, North America, the Latin countries of South America and more recently Sweden and the results of their endeavors should awaken Germany."

LEGION CONVENTION TO GET BATTLE FLEET

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—A battle fleet of the United States navy will participate in a spectacular naval show to be held during the convention of the American Legion here from October 15 to 19.

Announcement from Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt that a large fleet will be detailed to San Francisco for the convention gives assurance that the navy will have more prominence than it has received at any previous national gathering of the veterans' organization.

Included in the fleet will be nine battleships, 38 destroyers and a number of armored cruisers, tenders, hospital ships and other auxiliary craft.

Personnel attached to the vessels will number 900 commissioned officers, 100 warrant officers and 10,000 enlisted men.

Naval authorities of a number of countries allied with the United States in the World War have been asked to send vessels.

ERECTED AT TULIA

TULIA, Texas, Aug. 13.—A new modern four-story gin is being installed in Tulia to take care of Swisher county's cotton crop. The old building is to be torn away and replaced by the new one. Vaughan Brothers are the proprietors and will operate the gin. They received the machinery the first part of the week.

Has a Million in France
But No Way to Spend It

PARIS, Aug. 13.—What would you do with a million dollars? The question, causing visions of undreamed-of happiness to day dreamers, is nothing compared to the one which Sergeant Pierre Escalou of the Fourth colonial infantry, stationed at Toulon, is asking himself since he learned he had won a million francs in the periodical lottery drawing for holders of national bonds.

Pierre, his obligatory of military service ended, decided to enlist for five years more because he could not make a living in his native village. He has four years to serve and there is no way out. His fifty-franc bond brought him a million. He's all tumbled up to spend it, but—

"Allez! Hoi! Oh, there, Escalou, don't think because you are a millionaire you can do any 'soldering' around here."

This, at least ten times a day from his sous-lieutenant.

"Why, the last five rounds are on Escalou, of course! He's a millionaire."

This, from his regimental pals every time they visit a cafe.

Weak-kneed and haggard, Escalou gets back to the barracks at 5 a. m. Then he gets this:

"Sergeant, the jug for yours. A millionaire, eh? That makes of the nothing here. You're going just like the rest."

Boggs Found it After
A Search of 17 Years

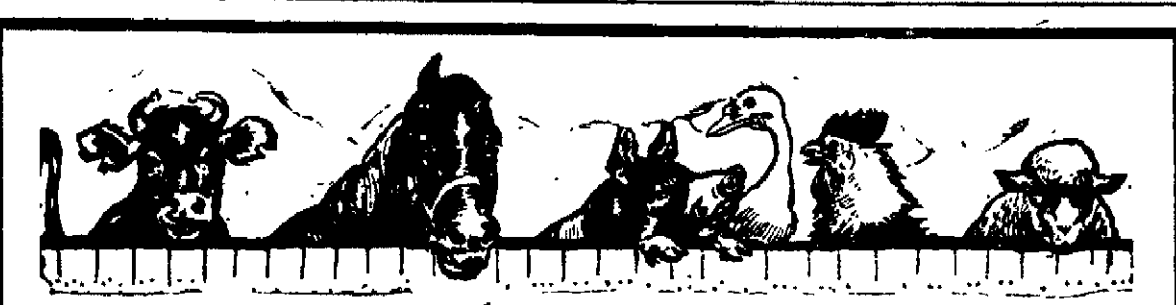

"I went to watering places all over the country, took everything a man could think of, but I never found anything to do me the good Tanlac has," is the statement of P. F. Boggs, 504 South Elm St., Sherman, Texas.

For seventeen years after meals there seemed to be a lump in my stomach about the size of my fist, and the pain was so bad at times I thought I would stop circulation of my blood. I could scarcely do any work, and was so nervous I couldn't sleep.

"I began to think I would never get well, but today I'm in fine health and can go out on my farm and work hard all day without ever tiring. Tanlac has fixed me up so I can eat anything I want, sleep all night long, and feel good all the time. Tanlac does the work."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitutes. Over 37 million bottles sold.

YOU AND I

FAST
A speed of 1000 miles an hour is the goal of flying machine men. That would be more than half as fast as the bullet from the United States army rifle, which travels 30 miles a minute.

Aviators will travel their 1000 miles an hour, and before many more years. Then they'll aspire to 2000. The speed craze seems to be an obsession with the airplane industry in general. And it's holding back popularization of the airplane, for what we need instead of speed is a safe, fool-proof plane at Ford prices. We need a machine that will fly across the continent in safety, rather than one that can make the trip in a few hours.

SNAILS
Frank Husey ran 100 yards at a speed of about a third of a mile a minute. It's not uncommon for an airplane to go 10 times as fast—and keep it up for hours.

Our bodies are weak and slow. We reinforce them by mechanical devices, our brains bridging the gap. Radium can pump lightning at its mechanical speed. It constantly throws off particles of itself which shoot into space at a speed of 750,000 miles a minute. That's the fastest thing in the line of moving matter, but it's slow alongside light and other ether vibrations.

DOUBLED
Our country's foreign trade has doubled in 10 years, glows the economist of a big New York bank.

It hasn't. What's happened is that prices have doubled in 10 years. Measured in bushels, tons, bales and the like, our foreign trade has been plunging along about the same as usual, year in, year out. When most of us think we're witnessing great industrial growth, we're really seeing only the inflation of an elastic dollar.

SAVED
Ten million lives were saved in Russia by the American Relief Administration which is withdrawing from the Red country. Famine and disease are under control over there. This saving of more lives than were lost in the world war was accomplished by an organization of 200 Americans. And the 10 million lives were saved at a cost of only $620 apiece. It cost 200 times as much to kill a man in the world war.

WIDOWS?
In 1874 Ferdinand W. Saydam was legally declared unable to care for his property, then worth $200,000. An accounting in a New York court shows that the estate now is worth over a million.

Time works wonders for the pocketbook. If you had banked $500,000 at compound interest in 1874, it would have grown to four million dollars by now. The same magic holds good for shorter times and smaller amounts.

TOM SIMS SAYS

The hotter it gets the more you hear about beer being absent.

Going in swimming before cooling off is about as safe as trying a drink of bad moonshine.

When four houses were dynamited in Pittsboro, Pa., they thought it a presidential boom at first.

Eight whales may have blown spray on Cape May N. J., fishermen. Anyway, the men say they did.

Many Americans are summering in Paris, where 2,000,000 liters of beer is drunk daily.

Eating cucumbers is as safe as smoking after drinking gin-fine.

When sending a wedding gift, time and worry may be saved by saying what the darn thing is.

We are getting ready for airplane traffic. Many of our roads seem to have been built for it.

Sometimes a plankton who goes in swimming just after eating gets pulled out all right.

A young lady tells us woman's place is in the porch swing.

Reformers seem to think the world is a menace to civilization and should be destroyed.

Wearing new shoes on an outing is about as safe as wearing none.

Lethbridge, Canada, reports hen eggs as large as hail stones.

Newton Baker says war looms in two years. War looms, we add, are things that wave trouble.

Barrel of beer rolled off a truck and hit a man in Philadelphia, showing wishes come true.

Rocking the boat is about as safe as rocking a policeman.

Laughing at a woman cooking over a hot stove in August is as safe as jumping down a volcano.

New substitute for gas has been found, probably coming more.

More luncheon would be drunk if food came on top.

NEFF VERSUS SMITH

The heavyweight battle between Ireland and Argentina is to be staged Labor Day when Dempsey meets Firpo. The odds favor the Irish.

In the political arena there may be staged during the close of August another heavyweight battle between the governor of Texas and the governor of New York. If such a battle is staged Texas will lead with a punch in Al Smith's corner when Neff addresses the peace-loving folk that attend Chautauqua, New York, each year as their idea of a good time.

The rules of a Chautauqua provide for a courtesy and indefiniteness on all things political. For that reason anything Governor Neff says may have to be put under a microscope in order to get the drift.

The fact remains that Neff, representing the prohibition south, should have a fine opportunity to lambast Smith, representing the wets of New York and incidentally at present heading the wet wing of the Democratic party.

If Neff attacks Smith and if Smith replies by telling Neff to go back home and take care of his own affairs, those of us who are interested in politics and prize fights may label the encounter at Chautauqua round one of the national row which Democrats always indulge in every four years.

Being rather warm and lackadaisical in Texas during the dull days of August, any sort of excitement is welcome.

Neff technically is in the better condition. Smith has been flitting with booze and for the last eight years booze has been a bad thing to train with in the Democratic party.

Governor Edwards of New Jersey found this out four years ago. Candidate Cox, slightly moist, was beaten by bone-dry Harding. It is hardly conceivable that the wet wing of the Democratic party will get very far at the next Democratic convention.

Neff has never been Democratic leader in a national sense. About every four years, however, each major party grows a new crop of leaders or near-leaders.

Neff may have more strength as a national leader than many Texans might suppose. There is a romance about Texas that gives anything Texan a national audience. Neff's greatest strength lies in his oratory. If he can attract national attention—and Al Smith has a way of attracting a considerable audience whenever he takes off his coat for a row—Neff may be able to hold the audience after Smith has introduced it.

Anyway, it's a hot summer.

PRESIDENT OREGON

President Obregon has many problems facing him. American recognition is coming and then the foreign claimants will swarm upon the Mexican capital.

There are British claims of $670,000,000; American claims of $650,000,000; French claims of $300,000,000; Spanish claims of $200,000,000; Dutch claims of $50,000,000,000 and Belgian and Swiss claims about ten million dollars each.

To quote from the vocabulary of a well-known Texas cattleman, "You can't fool a buzzard." Mexico isn't dying. Mexico isn't going to die. Mexico is a coming country. Mexico is one of the richest countries in natural resources under the shining sun. Mexico has been open to the pillagers of the world since the coming of Cortez centuries ago.

Throughout the ages the knights of the Golden Fleece have found Mexico a rich bird of plumage to be picked to the bones. America should lend Mexico a helping hand. American should see to it that some of the fabulous wealth of Mexico is used for the education of the children of the Mexican people.

Why should the adventures of the world, the bold and brazen buccaners of this age of civilization be permitted to loot a defenseless people? America is a great producing country. America has a vast surplus of the products of the soil to sell and a vast surplus of manufactured goods and wares.

Place Mexico on its feet. Assist the Mexican government in building a civilization throughout the ages. America needs foreign markets. Texas needs foreign markets. There are seventy millions Spanish speaking people in the Latin countries—Mexico, Central America and the South American republics.

These people are not paupers. They are not Hindus or Chinese. They are building empires. They are large exporters of their own products and importers of the products of English speaking countries. They are neighbors. They are on the border line of the Panama canal. They are in touch with American institutions and American ambitions.

They are republics and they are self-governing communities. Their interests are allied with American interests. There are many wise Americans who openly declare that the markets for this country in future years are to be found in these Spanish speaking countries and that it is of more importance to maintain friendly relations and establish trade relations with the Latin-Americans than it is to talk about an open door in China or the building of commerce with many of the war-ridden countries on the continent of Europe. These European nations for the most part are debt-ridden and poverty-stricken and will remain so for fifty years to come.

CHEAP GAS WON'T LAST

According to the bureau of mines, American refineries on July 1st had on hand sixty days' supply of gasoline at the June rate of consumption. Notwithstanding the existence of large stocks at this time supplies are relatively only twenty-two per cent greater than on the same date in 1922 when the factor of greatly increased demand is considered. More than a million motor vehicles and tractors will be manufactured and placed on the market this year. Cheap gas isn't here to stay for the reason that the demand for gasoline is increasing all the time. Of course there are many independent refiners who are going to be smashed this season. It is a time when the whale swallows the minnows.

HOW COME?

Rev. William H. Anderson of New York has ordered a political boycott placed on Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama and Governor Al Smith of New York. Dr. Anderson says that the next Democratic national convention must stand for dry enforcement. Isn't Dr. Anderson the gentleman who recently faced several indictments returned by a New York grand jury for the careless handling of funds which were sent to the coffers of the Anti-Saloon League? Isn't Dr. Anderson a life-long Republican politician? Isn't Dr. Anderson superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York? If he is all these and more what claim has he upon the Democratic party or how comes his right to dictate to the Democrats of America?

COOLIDGE SHOULDERS HIS CHIEF'S BURDENS

NIGHT LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO MRS. MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT.

Unless you can keep that meddling old maid from sticking her finger into my affairs I shall in the future return unopened to your address all letters from you or from her.

JOHN.

TELEGRAM FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON.

Leslie so much better than I can leave on some very important business in New York. Is it possible for you to meet me there tomorrow?

JOHN.

TELEGRAM FROM SYDNEY CARTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT.

Will be glad to join you in New York. Some business of my own has been waiting me there for a long time.

SYD.

LETTER FROM JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON TO HIS WIFE.

DEAR ALICE:

How long before Leslie will be well enough to let you come home? It is awfully lonely here without you. Please tell her that this morning I added a cushion to my wall, leaving her new, so the same amount of money I should have done had she been home herself instead of adopting me.

Young Atherton writes that his eyes are growing better all the time and he thinks that the first of the month, with the aid of a good secretary, he will be able to begin at least a part of his duties. I am going to give the job to a chance. He has paid hard for a mistake and I think his first employer was not only a sound-dial, but a cat.

I had a cablegram yesterday from Alice. She wants money, of course. Cable for a thousand dollars and so I am enclosing in this letter a check for a thousand for Leslie. She probably needs it more than Alice.

I note what you say about Jack. I am glad you like him so well. He has always seemed to be a pretty decent fellow, although I have never liked him as well as I do Karl. Probably that is because I have known Karl ever since he was a child.

I am extremely anxious to have you home for the anniversary of our wedding. I always count that day as the anniversary of the greatest thing in the world that has ever happened to me, my dear. You certainly have been the best wife in the world to me. Without you I should never have made anything of myself. Or that I am up to care.

Don't think it is because I am lonely. I am telling you this. It is because, my dear, I have recently talked with my old friend, Jason Blakely, and he has told me what a loss he has sustained in the death of his wife. God grant, Alice dear, that when separation comes to us, I may be the first to go.

Your loving,

JOE.

Movies Are Big Aid to Silver Mines, Is Claim

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The use of silver in arts and manufacturing has developed into an important factor in the silver market, making constant growing demands on silver production, according to Robert Linton of New York, president of the North Butter Mining company, in a statement on "The Outlook for Silver."

"The amount of silver required for use in arts and manufacturing," says Linton, "has shown a steady increase, rising in the United States from 12,217,281 ounces in 1910 to 31,252,571 ounces in 1922, from which point it dropped to 28,846,628 ounces in 1921, or a net increase for the period of over 100 per cent."

"The most important single factor in this increase has been the development of the motion picture industry and the growing popularity of amateur photography. Approximately 5,000,000 ounces of silver are used annually in the United States alone for these purposes, and what is used in other countries could be traced to the aggregate up to a large figure."

"The eyes of the newborn baby should always be carefully examined and treated at once if the least weakness or any impairment of vision shows itself. In the great city hospitals it is a law that all babies' eyes must be treated as soon after birth as possible. The Crode method, by which a 1 per cent solution of silver nitrate is instilled in the baby's eyes is generally used."

"The eyes of children should be carefully examined by a specialist before entering school and at least every year after that time in order to guard against any change in vision or overstrain."

Glasses are not always needed, in many cases, however, the use of corrective lenses in early life will help and often restore eyes to their normal condition. Worth while, isn't it?

Goggles for Workers.

Shop goggles should be worn by all men who are exposed to the least danger in the mills and factories. Do not let any false pride or the jibes of fellow workmen too you of your eyes. Many mills have physicians and nurses to properly treat all accidents at once. But in spite of all precautions, there are places where eye accidents run as high as 25 per cent of the total injuries.

Beware of the so-called shop oculist. He is one of those fellow workers who is ready at all times with dirty hands and a sharpened match to remove foreign particles from your eyes.

There are infections so drastic of sight. A well-known surgeon, in one of our great cities, has recently suffered in this way. Guard your eyes against all infections. Do not attempt home remedies. At the least step of trouble consult an expert at once. Two your hospitals, dispensaries, physicians and nurses and save what is the most precious that the mere touch means the loss of all your vision.

Heidt sat back in his chair. "It's damned odd," he admitted. "Look at it another way," pursued Pennington. "Chai-Hung was a celebrity. He had an immense following. Wouldn't you think they'd stick up a monument over his last resting place instead of kicking the whole affair a dead secret?"

The commissioner brought both hands on to the arms of his chair. "I don't quite know what to think," he said slowly. "If Chai-Hung's death, as I honestly believe he is, there's precious little left to worry about. On the other hand, if he managed to get out of the death trap he'd set for Brabazon—It's a damned serious proposition. He rose to his feet and began pacing the room. "The responsibility of my position here at this moment's getting on my nerves. I can't help realizing that the safety of every white man, woman and child depends on the accuracy of my deductions with regard to these gang-murders."

"What are you going to do?" asked Monica. "I've forebore wrinkled prettily. "Peter!" she declared with sudden emphasis.

"That's my name."

"The commissioner swung round in his chair and smiled.

Monica rose suddenly and made for the door. On the threshold she stopped and glanced back over her shoulder.

"Are you going to be frightfully busy, Mr. Pennington?" she asked. "Because I've thousands of things to talk to you about when John's finished with you."

Pennington turned presently and saw her brother regarding him curiously.

"I imagine you want to marry Monica?" he suggested bluntly.

Pennington's eyes that were set like an Oriental's on his youthful countenance, disappeared behind his diagonal slits.

"And supposing I do?"

"There was something in the ring of his voice that suggested he feared opposition on the part of the commissioner of police himself; but he whistled from his chair and dropped both hands on the younger man's shoulders.

"Pennington, old son," he declared, "there's nothing on this earth that I'd like better."

"Thanks," said the other huskily.

"What are my chances if you think?"

"If you ask me my opinion, I should say you've as much likelihood of being successful as any man on the island. Why don't you ask her—now?"

Pennington waved a hand in front of him as if to dispel a mist that had suddenly arisen.

"You sent for me because your territory was over-run by the Yellow Seven gang. The instant I embarked on my investigations, I realized that their leader—Chai-Hung—was the toughest nut I had yet set out to crack. It was after I was certain of my feelings toward you—after that I swore to myself never to submit my personal affairs to a third party—Chai-Hung to earth."

Heidt stood stroking his smooth black hair.

"Well," he declared, "you accomplished what you set out to do. You caught Chai-Hung in his own trap. The governor thanked you personally. What more do you want?"

Pennington dropped wearily into a chair.

"I'm not satisfied," he told him. "My contract was to get the blighter dead or alive. I did neither. I couldn't. I had a horde of his ruffians at my heels and young Brabazon to get out of the scrape into which he'd tumbled. Brabazon took my pistol and kept 'em off, while I threw Chai-Hung into the death-chamber. It was full of poisonous fumes. I'll admit, and I doubt if a fly could have lived in it; but I'd have given everything I possessed to see that villainous face composed for his last sleep."

"You ignore the importance of circumstantial evidence," said Heidt. "That was a month ago. There hasn't been a single outrage since. And every Chinaman on the island went into mourning. That's good enough for me, and it ought to be good enough for you."

"Ah!" commented Chinese Pennington, still unconvinced. "Have you any idea where they buried him?"

The commissioner shook his head.

"Have you?"

"No. That's the evil of it. I've been wandering from place to place, in my usual elaborate disguise, trying to find out. Don't you see my point?"

Heidt sat back in his chair. "It's damned odd," he admitted. "Look at it another way," pursued Pennington. "Chai-Hung was a celebrity. He had an immense following. Wouldn't you think they'd stick up a monument over his last resting place instead of kicking the whole affair a dead secret?"

Pennington waved a hand in front of him as if to dispel a mist that had suddenly arisen.

"You sent for me because your territory was over-run by the Yellow Seven gang. The instant I embarked on my investigations, I realized that their leader—Chai-Hung—was the toughest nut I had yet set out to crack. It was after I was certain of my feelings toward you—after that I swore to myself never to submit my personal affairs to a third party—Chai-Hung to earth."

DERGARMENTS THIS YEAR O BE CORRECT MUST MATCH THE FROCK, FASHION'S DECREE

THE inner side of every frock
We find is lined
With undergarments, pink or green.
To match the frock designed.

Undergarments this year match the frock with which they are worn or carry out the color of the frock in lighter tones. The little cotton frock has lingerie of colored voile to it. Voile underwear is best when simply made and in embroidered rosebuds or hemstitching, rather than lace trimmed, as lace is more effective when used on de Chine, georgette or chiffon.

Lining flesh shades are colors such as peach, Nile green, auburn, and lemon. These colors are made up in combinations as well as in silk ones. Quantities of lace are used, as miladi has grown weary of the simple hemd garments. Medallions of lace embroidered with monograms are set onto bodies of costume slips and step-ins. Wide of lace form yokes on many garments and are also as a border about the petticoat hem.

Undergarments with "unlike" attached buttons at the sides, front of the waistline so that it could be buttoned onto it, making the costume slip, and at the same time holding the petticoat in place.

Lace is used extensively this year. It is often used to match the color of the garment. It is as popular as a lace-trimmed dress. It is used on crepe de Chine garments, being a neutral shade used under various colored dresses.

The new crepe one can find is lovely material for the underwear, which is easily washed and will require no ironing. It is always prettier in colors, white, as white turns yellow with use, unless laundered by hand.

The most practical crepe is made without lace or trimmings. Hemstitching or borders of contrasting color. Some of the crepe ones are lovely for the girl, as they have borders, pink, ruffles, golf balls, etc., and in contrasting colors.

Undergarments, it is not as simple as it seems. A practical underwear, or cotton nappies, which have become popular, can be cut off at the top and used as a band of white lace, a cool vacation nightgown.

TUESDAY

Peoples: "Brawn of the North" featuring Strongheart, the wonder dog. Round No. 5 of "Fighting Blood" and Aspects Tables.
Strand: "Grumpy" starring Theodore Roberts, Conrad Nagel and May McAvoy, also Stan Laurel comedy.
Peoples: "Shadows" starring Lou Chancy, Walter Long, Margaret De L. Moore, Harrison Ford and Buddy Messenger. Mermaid comedy.
Green Tree: Agnes Ayres and Mahlon Hamilton in "Heart Raiders," comedy reel.

BRAWN OF THE NORTH

An advance notice says: To those who remember "The Silent Call" it will probably sound unbelievable to declare that the second attraction starring Strongheart, the wonder dog actor, "Brawn of the North" at the Peoples Theatre for an engagement of two days, shows this star 100 per cent improved since his initial picture. But it is a fact. Laurence Trimble and Jane Murfin, who have sponsored this second production, have given him opportunity to display an acting ability that would never be suspected in a dog and he proves equal to it.

"SHADOWS"

There is one scene in which at least a dozen people cannot hurt the accusation, "Oh, he's always the same." He is Lou Chancy.
In fact, Chancy is never the same. You may see him today in one characterization and tomorrow when he comes to town in something else you will wonder who he is. Chancy has developed the art of make-up more than any other person in pictures. He follows the trend and most difficult times with a perfection born of his own discoveries before his dressing table.

Quaintest Town in America Throwback to 200 Years Ago

Instead of "Yes, We Have No Bananas," Popular Song Is "Pop Goes the Weasel" Dance Every Night

OCRAOKE, N. C., Aug. 13.—Ocracoke, a throwback to the days of the English explorers and a queer mixture of the romance of the South Seas, the religion of the Puritans and the civilization of the nineteenth century, is the quaintest little town in America.

The eight hundred inhabitants who have spent their lives here, following in the footsteps of their fathers, live from the fish in the sea at their doors and the figs as fine as Samarra's which grow wild in the sand mountains in their backyards.

The main street of Ocracoke is a creek. The town has no streets or roads, only little footpaths running down to the beach, or connecting the rear door of one dweller with that of another. There is not an officer of the law in town and although some of the doors have locks, relics of bygone days, the keys long have been lost and forgotten.

Town on an Island
The town is on an island by the same name, fifteen miles in length, barely a mile wide and five hours journey by boat from the mainland. The island Ocracoke is within sight of the mainland.

Of the graveyard of the Atlantic, the island is a scene of desolation. The graves are scattered almost in their yards.

Horses run wild outside this little town, just as do the mountains in isolated sections of the Western plains. Cattle, as wild as the pampas of Argentina, rove the ocean beach to the northward. There are no dogs on the island, but cats have multiplied until there are hundreds. Having rid the village of mice and rats, the felines have almost eradicated the many snakes which once thrived in Ocracoke.

There are thousands of chickens about the place but they are community property and no fences to restrict them are in evidence anywhere. Time goes by and ducks are also numerous. They are used to decoy the millions of Labrador wild fowls which swarm in the marshes of Ocracoke and Currituck to feed.

Old Fashioned Dances

The people are just as unusual as the town itself. They dance almost nightly, but their dances are the ones introduced by their grandfathers and the shaming, lango and fox trot are as strange here as crime. A favorite melody of the island orchestra is "Pop Goes the Weasel."

ICE CREAM

When ice cream refuses to come out of the mold, pour a little cold water over the outside of the can. It will melt it sufficiently to loosen the cream from the mold, but not enough to spoil the shape.

Puffed Grains

Steam exploded—airy, flavory
8 times normal size

Quaker Puffed Wheat and Quaker Puffed Rice are whole grains steam exploded. Over 125 million steam explosions are caused in every kernel.

The food cells are broken, so digestion is made easy and complete. The grains are puffed to airy globules, thin and flaky, with a taste like toasted nuts.

Thus whole grains are made enticing. People revel in them morning, noon and night.

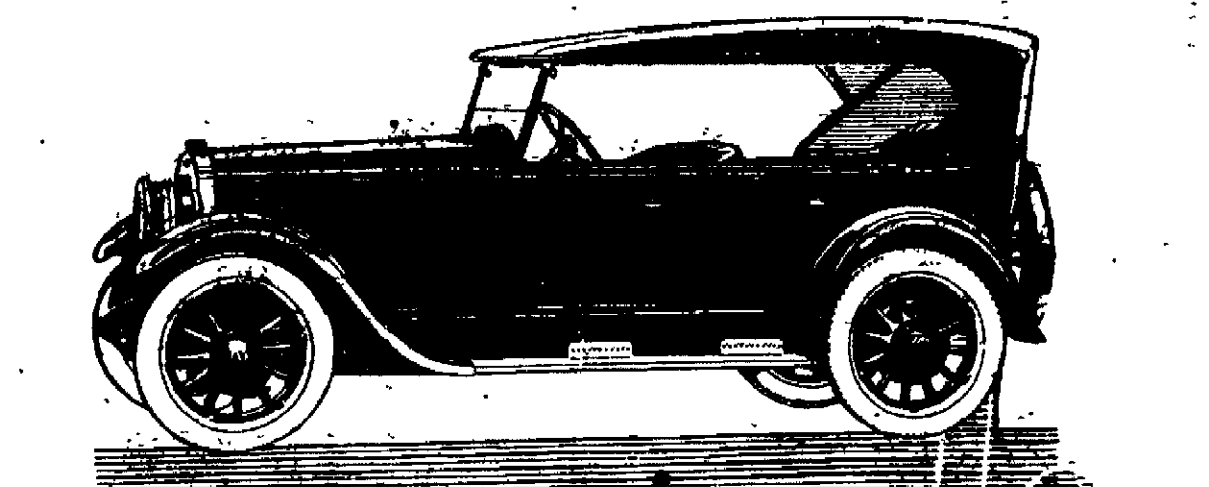

They are served by the millions of mothers who want their children to eat whole-grain foods in abundance. At breakfast with cream and sugar, between meals with melted butter, at night in bowls of milk.

Whole wheat supplies 12 minerals which growing children must have. It provides their need of bran. And milk supplies the vitamins.

Here whole wheat is made a food confection, by Professor Anderson's great process. And the finest cereal dainties people ever tasted are made of rice and wheat.

CLAIMS LEGION AFTER BERGDO

Says Paris Post Offer
$10,000 for Capture

ENERBACH, Germany, Aug. 10.—Roger Sperber, alleged apach, Paris, who was twice wounded and had his thumb bitten off by G. Cleveland Bergdoll during the attempted kidnapping in which the draft dodger killed one of his assistants, is reported to have agreed to the German authorities, the American Legion in Paris a $10,000 for the successful capture of Bergdoll.

The elder Mrs. Bergdoll says, will remain in Germany until freedom is granted Grover in home where he now is persecuted. "Why do they want to take Grover's life? Why did they throw other son, Erwin, into prison?" asked. "Why sequester our property? We have only done good to the world."

Log Raft Is Weather Prophet in Michi

BONIFACE, Mich., Aug. 13.—
a lake full of cedar logs; but rent on it as an accurate barometer of the weather.

During the last 15 years, a back to the time when cedar were first dumped into Bass along whose shores Boniface stated, this barometer has never known to fail, citizens of Bass Lake has for many years millions of feet of cedar logs float in it. These logs were cut by Boniface Lumber company and dumped into the lake until the saw was ready for them. The water them from rotting.

Ordinarily this great mass of lies along the edge of the lake in a belt about 50 to 75 feet. Always within about fourteen of a min the logs will start to querey. Single logs will break from the mass around the shores drift slowly out into the middle the lake.

What causes these logs to do, or what causes the whole unit along the shore to loosen up the usual compact mass, no one has been able to explain. It is a current in the water, for the logs are too small to have currents, not the wind that causes these to break away—they do it when it is not a breath of air stirring.

Americans Need One Victory to Cop New Wightman Net Honor

Net Stars Representing U. S. Clash With British Team Today in Last Lap of Tournery to Decide Winner of International Cup.

By HENRY L. FARRELL

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—With but one victory needed to win the New Wightman trophy, the team of American women tennis stars will meet the British team in four concluding matches of the international clash here this afternoon. While the British team is expected to play some better than did Saturday when the Americans won three straight matches, the chances of America losing the cup are slight as the visitors would have to take very number on today's program to win.

Helen Wills, the California girl who thrilled the crowd Saturday with a great victory over Miss Kathleen McKane, ex-rankings star of England, will play Mrs. R. C. Clayton today and Mrs. M. L. Mallory, the American champion, will meet Miss McKane in a match that should be the feature of the day.

Miss Eleanor Goss will engage in another singles match against Mrs. R. B. Bonish, the second best of British stars, and a doubles match will round out the day with Miss Mallory playing with Miss Wills against Mrs. Bonish and Mrs. Clayton.

The Wightman trophy, which is being played for the first time this year, is expected to become the "Davis cup" of the women's class and although the competition is now confined to the United States and Great Britain, it is hoped that several foreign nations will challenge for the cup next year.

In conjunction with the final rounds of the international matches, the first round of the American national tennis championship will be started today.

One of the British players are entered in the championships along with a host of the American players. Mrs. Mallory, seven times American champion, is facing the toughest task she has had in years to retain her title. Helen Wills and Kathleen McKane are looked upon as most dangerous candidates for the title.

In defeating Miss McKane Saturday, the young California girl aimed to retain the same title and she is a fine chance to win the title.

Patrick Believes in Peppy Ball Players
VERNON, Cal., Aug. 13.—A hustling ball player is worth a couple of dollars who will not give their best effort. Joe Patrick, president of the Los Angeles club, said today after being in baseball for 20 seasons has started to make a study of ball players in an effort to fill up his Angel ball club.

"One of the greatest examples of style was shown in the case of Ray French the Vernon shortstop," George Patrick said. "When French was hit out of the Vernon lineup by a ruling of Commissioner Landis, a team lost its punch."

"I never saw such a change in an organization as there was in the Vernon club when French was lost."

"And still there were better fielders and better hitters in the league than French."

Patrick also believes a ball player is he dissatisfied when he thinks he is satisfied. There were several cases of holdouts on the local ball last spring. The men finally signed their contracts and said they were satisfied, but they have not been able to deliver.

Charley Lockard, president of the little club, believes that Dell, who hit out on the Tigers this spring, will be a winning pitcher for the Indians.

He claims the fact that Dell is with new club will mean that the player will be able to do better work, Dell had the first half of the season for Vernon, but he could not like a winning pitcher.

Elmer Conder, pitcher for the Angels, is another player who was a holdout and who cannot get into the lineup column.

JOHNNY, RESTING, YEARNs FOR WATER AGAIN
By GEORGE BRITT
CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—"I'm just resting now, but if wanting and trying to win anything, I'll be back in a week before long."

"This treatment is the easy life. I don't wake up until about 10 or 10:30 in the morning, and I lounge around all day. No medicine. I eat nearly everything, except I cut down on meat and don't take any acids like tomatoes or grapefruit. Friends come in to see me, and I read a good deal. I have read Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn since I have been laid up."

"Say, kid, when you swim, swing your arms out wider," he cries to a youthful son of a club member in the pool. "That's the way. That's good form."

Johnny's heart condition is due, physicians believe, to overexertion. Yet he himself will tell you that he never strained.

"They never had to carry me out of the water after a race," he says.

"I believe I could go faster than I ever have done. When I was in form, I just tried to go fast enough to win a race or cut down a record, without putting all my strength into it. I never felt bad from my heart."

The physicians say that with good luck and proper care Johnny probably can go back into the races next spring. As to the present here is a statement from Dr. M. H. Wilkinson.

"After examination and observation of the condition of Johnny Weismuller, I find that he has a murmur relevant to the aortic valve. His blood pressure picture is not a favorable one for future competition. Prognosis would have more value in two or three months than now."

"His condition can be improved only by uninterrupted staying in as quiet a state as possible. This means bed and rest, absolutely, for two or three months."

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 13.—San Antonio took the series from Beaumont Sunday, and slipped back into the first division by winning both games here as Galveston split a pair with Houston. Beaumont being unable to touch eight hits which came one each in the last eight innings.

When Taps Sounded for Marion's Famous Son, Home Forever

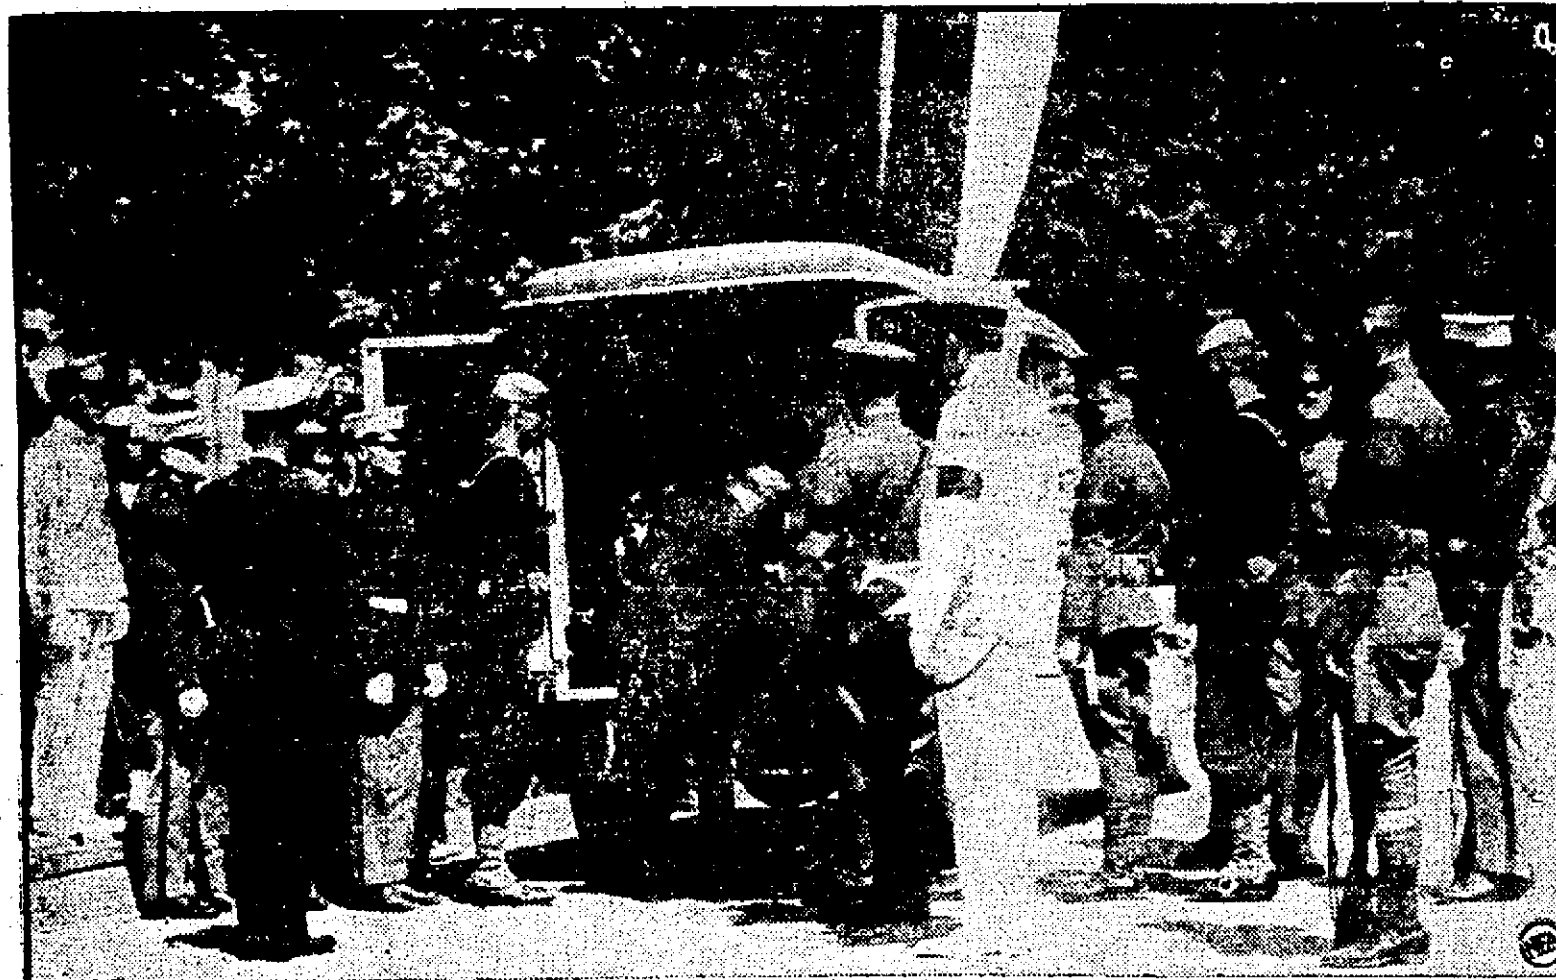

GATHERED TO HIS FATHERS

FAREWELL, NEIGHBOR WARREN!

Come the mournful notes of the final trumpets. From over the hills, looms the cannon's echo. Twenty-one times the guns boom out. It is the presidential salute. And the last one for Warren G. Harding. For taps is sounding. The twenty-ninth president of the United States has entered the court of the King of Kings. Tenderly they lay him to rest. Neighbors and old school chums and the nation's great bid him adieu as loving hands deposit the casket in its temporary resting place in a mausoleum in Marion cemetery. Thus ends the last chapter in the life of Marion's favorite son.

AT THE HEARSE DOOR BEFORE LEAVING THE STATION

The Harding coffin, in the picture above, has just been placed in the hearse. The Stars and Stripes have been thrown over it and the flag's folds are being arranged, in readiness to close the door for departure from the Marion railroad station for the home of the late president's father, where the neighbors paid their final respects. Military and naval guards are seen in the foreground.

HE WAS JUST A PAL TO THEM

Henry Ford, Harvey Firestone and Thomas Edison have started on their annual camping trip. But they have left their best friend behind. They came to see him, though, before leaving. But they saw him in his flag-draped casket. This picture was taken in front of Dr. Harding's home on the morning of the late president's funeral. Rev. James Swank, pastor of the Epworth Methodist church in Marion, who offered the prayer at the casket was tenderly put into the vault, is on the extreme left. Bishop William F. Anderson of the Methodist Episcopal diocese of Cincinnati, who pronounced the benediction, is on the extreme right. Ford stands next to the minister, then comes Firestone. Edison is second from end of right.

IN THE HEART OF A CHILD

"Rest in Peace" reads the card on this floral offering which Ambrose J. W. Higgins, Jr., five, of New York City, hands to John Trice, White House staff officer. It was written in the lad's own scrawl. It is just one of those little things that shows that Warren G. Harding lives in the hearts of children.

AS HARDING LEFT HIS DESK

Here is the late President Harding's desk in his private office—just as he left on what was to be a combined business and pleasure trip to Alaska and the far west. Notice his mother's photograph in an oval frame.

MARKETS

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Wall street continues in the face of the disturbing European developments over the week end was not so much a manifestation of indifference toward the happenings as it was a demonstration that the market had reached a state where it was no longer susceptible to any favorable influences.

Although the latest British note on reparation and the fall of the Cuno ministry in Germany were unduly disturbing, they fell flat as market factors simply because the foundation of the market is still following four months of steady decline.

After a brief flurry of activity in the early trading, trading developed a monotonous character and the volume of trading remained extremely limited. But prices attained the best levels of recent weeks in the morning hours and held them pretty well throughout the day.

The market closed irregular.

Closing prices: U. S. Steel 87 1/2, up 1/2; Bethlehem 112 1/2, off 1/2; American Locomotive 72 1/2, off 1/2; Texas Company 41 1/2, off 1/2; Pan-American 60, off 1/2; Standard Oil 102 1/2, off 1/2; General Motors 14 1/2, up 1/2; U. S. Rubber 32 1/2, off 1/2; American Can 52 1/2, off 1/2; Eames, Plaster 20, off 1/2; Southern Railway 21 1/2, off 1/2; New York Central 92 1/2, off 1/2; Chicago and North Western 63, off 1/2.

There was some irregularity at the opening of the stock exchange today, due in part to the strong tone of the British correspondence on reparation.

Specialties were strong in the initial trading. The sentiment in the American district seems to favor low prices and many stocks are giving ground each time to the bears place large selling orders in the market. Bulls on the other hand are somewhat discouraged over the developments and are confining their efforts to individual issues rather than to the general market.

The bears, too, are extremely active in individual issues and the new low records recently recorded are said to be the result of hasty outbursts. Opening prices on the stock exchange today include:

Central Leather 25, off 1/2; Utah 34 1/2, up 1/2; Northern Pacific 34 1/2, off 1/2; Baltimore and Ohio 18, off 1/2; American Locomotive 72 1/2, off 1/2; United States Steel 87 1/2, up 1/2; Westinghouse 32 1/2, up 1/2; Car and Foundry 29, up 1/2; Standard Oil 102 1/2, off 1/2; American T. and T. 122 1/2, off 1/2; Southern Railway 21 1/2, off 1/2; Bethlehem Steel 112 1/2, off 1/2.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE: NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Foreign exchange market irregular. Sterling 160 1/2, francs 165 1/2, Belgians 162 1/2, Italians 162 1/2, marks 222 1/2, dollars 26 3/4.

Foreign exchange closed generally down. Sterling demand 160 1/2, off 1/2; francs 165 1/2, off 1/2; Belgians 162 1/2, off 1/2; Italians 162 1/2, off 1/2; marks 222 1/2, off 1/2; dollars 26 3/4, off 1/2.
